Strengths

1. Fast learner

I understand basics and principle of programming. I have strong skill in researching my question on the internet. Also quite good with English reading. Therefore, make me very fast to learn new programming language or new framework, given that language/framework have well-written document.

2. Open to suggestion

Constructive criticism always good for working. It doesn't matter if you're beginner or expert, there's always lot to learn. Though I always take things into consideration, not just blindly follow criticism.

3. Cooperative

I know I can't do everything alone. Even though I can didn't mean I could. Especially If I need to work in the company, not personal projects. Especially in programming.

4. Organized / Systematic

I am my projects always organized. My personal projects might not 'well' organized like when working with others. Just simply keeping backup and organized things well. But when I'm working with others I'll have git, Trello, Slacks and everything possible to make our workflows as smooth as possible.

5. Routine oriented

I do a lot of things. Some changed, some always the same. I don't get bored easily and can do the same thing everyday for years. If the process is to menial, I'll just automated it.
